

Blockchain Technology, Certificate of Achievement Career Information

This certificate of achievement program is for students who wish to acquire an interdisciplinary education in blockchain technology and business. Students will combine these skills in preparation for a business career of their choice. A certificate of achievement in blockchain technology provides students with a solid education of the mechanics of blockchain protocols, and the problems blockchain technologies aim to solve in the business industry. Students will explore various areas of business, including supply chain, finance, health care, real estate, and all business functions where blockchain skills are in high demand.
